

Purpose

Each member of the University System of Georgia community, or USG, has his or her own set of values, beliefs, and ethical decision-making processes, but in order to ensure consistency across the university system, every member of our community is required to adhere to the University System of Georgia Statement of Core Values, that assures that each student, faculty member, and staff member is treated respectfully and under laws and guidelines required by state and federal law. These core values are:

Integrity · Excellence · Accountability · Respect

The University System of Georgia Code of Conduct, comprised of thirteen ethics policies, provides guidance to you in applying the four core values to the decisions and choices that are made in the course of everyday work life.
